Two Hurt in Fight With Tire Tool Bottle

A tire tool bottle, a beaten-up boy, and a beat-en-up may lose an eye—as a result of an altercation that started with an exchange of remarks at a service station south of Madison and ended in a fight with tire tool and a bottle as weapons in North Granite about 11 p.m. Saturday.

Michael E. Stiel, 17, of 714 Stief Street, was given emergency treatment for a possible skull fracture, brain concussion and a cut to the right side of his head. Lloyd Harper, 20, of 1017 Perry Street, Madison, who was hit in the face with a bottle, may lose his right eye. He was transferred to McMillian Hospital, St. Louis.

Stief, Steven Curtis Underwood, 19, of Louis, and a juvenile, were charged with disorderly conduct by police, who had been summoned to the hospital emergency room when Harper was undergoing the incident occurring on 20th street and Edison avenue.

A short time later, Stief appeared at the hospital for treatment, and said another altercation had occurred in front of his home after Harper had followed them there, following an exchange of remarks and name-calling at the service station.

Stief said Harper, 20, had alighted from his car as they arrived at the Stief home and came at them with a tire tool, striking Stief several times. Stief said he grabbed the tire tool, hitting Harper in the face, and Harper shouted, then got in his car and sped away. Police said all parties involved are to be charged.

BOB DEMARCO
To be Guest Speaker

In the last six months, SUSSW has received nearly two million dollars from outside agencies for special research and training programs.

John E. Brown, assistant director of the Graduate School for Research here, said this is an increase of 258% over the same period last year, a rise of $1,122,800.

The university's fiscal year begins July 1. Since that time, it has recorded a total of $1,830,546 for research.

The big three ongoing projects from the local campus are: Project funded by the International Development, $302,403; Manpower Training Center, funded by Health Education and Welfare and the Department of Labor, $895,481; and the Demonstration Center sponsored by the Office of Economic Opportunity at $291,630.

All three of these projects continue through 1968.

The Mail Project was originally directed from the Carbondale campus. Funding comes from the U. S. Agency for International Development (AID) and is directed to SU faculty members working directly with the Malian Ministry of Education in providing professional services to a teacher training center.

Vocational Training

The Vocational Training Center, located in East St. Louis, offers intensive vocational training programs for area citizens. The Technical and Adult Education Division operates the program.

Also in East St. Louis is the site for the Demonstration Center, known as the Experiment in Higher Education. This specializes in primary education, secondary education, and postsecondary education.

Miss Carol Ann Reynolds Bride of Myron Converse

One of the first weddings of the new year was that Saturday afternoon at St. Joseph Catholic Church of Miss Carol Ann Reynolds, a daughter of James Reynolds, 2212 Missouri avenue, and the late Edna Reynolds, and Myron J. Converse, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Myron E. Converse, 2011 Delmar avenue.

Arrangements of white flowers and a white aisle cloth provided the setting for the 2 o'clock ceremony performed by the Rev. Martin Manga. A program of readings and music was provided by Mrs. Francis Judd, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of soft organza over taffeta. The soft netting was edged with lace, and appliques of lace trimmed the long fitted sleeves and the full organza skirt. A Watteau train was attached at the waist. The bride's bouquet and a forward headpiece with a petal design and lilies of the valley secured a cloud veil of silk illusion.

Decorations in a cascade tied with green and white ribbons made up the bride's bouquet.

The attendants were Miss Regina Hull, maid of honor, and Miss Linda Green, bridesmaid.

They were dressed alike in Empire gowns with white lace bodices with short sleeves accented at the shoulders with olive green and lace, and skirts of apricot crepe skirt in a straight line silhouette. Tiered serve out the rest of their terms.

While candidates seeking all city offices except mayor still have until Jan. 27 to file nominating petitions, candidates for the Feb. 11 primary do enter the mayoralty race.

Interpretation of the legislation created confusion in several sets of filing dates, but Granite City officials eventually decided on a mayor's filing period Dec. 23 through Jan. 15 (no filing on Saturday, Jan. 13) and a withdrawal deadline. The opening date of the filing period was the same as that for candidates for all other city offices. It was the same as the withdrawal deadline.

The regular term of Incumbent Alderman William Davis expires this year. Therefore, an alderman will serve for a full four-year term and one-half a two-year term.

2-Year Term Open

Dallas has filed petitions of candidacy for re-election to the regular term of Incumbent Alderman William Davis. Two candidates also have filed nominating petitions for the two-year term. They are Everett Morien, 2666 East 24th street, and Samuel Shackelford, 2601 Main street, both of whom are former Sixth Ward aldermen.

Thus far in the filing period, Incumbent Second Ward Alderman Edmund Bartosik, whose term expires this year, is the only alderman to file his petitions, but in Ward Three Incumbent Alderman Roy Poulos, who has filed his petitions, is opposed by Albert Ward Jr., 2408 Hodges Avenue, and another former alderman of the Sixth Ward.

Wards Two and Five now have two "holdover" aldermen in each as a result of ward boundary changes made to redistrict the city. Alderman in either of these two wards currently will give the city a total council membership of 16, same as it was before the redistricting.

Pending the outcome of the filing period, there will be two in 1967 the terms of the two incumbent aldermen still serving in each of the two wards will expire, with only one to be elected. This will phase out two of the remaining seats to give the council its normal roster of 14 members, two each of the five wards.

Legality Questioned

Several weeks ago Pendleton filed the legalities of conducting an election for either of the two wards. He said to day, however, that former City Attorney Richard Allen informed him he had filed his petition for election of an alderman in each of the two wards since the present aldermen in Wards Two and Five are "holdover" aldermen allowed to sue for election in the halting this.

Basarich Files

Steve Basarich, incumbent alderman of the Fifth Ward, is the only candidate to file in that race thus far, but perhaps he has not yet filed. Basarich is a former state senator.

Steinhausen Files

Incumbent Alderman Richard Fry has filed his petition to be a candidate for re-election in the Ward Six election.

Already filing in the Ward Six election is Paul Schuler, 3237 Newell drive, now a member of the park board who term expires this year, but who has said he will not seek re-election to the park board, and Henry Kovalk, 47 Villa drive. Kovalk also is a former state senator.

The next incident was at 8 p.m. in the 2200 block of Washington avenue, where a man, described as being about 22 years old, stood near the back door and exposed himself to a woman and her daughter. The man made an obscene remark and then went to his auto and sped east on 23rd street.

SIU, Still Growing, Starts 100th Year

Turning the corner into its 100th year of existence, Southern Illinois University can look back on a long, long way that may have seen some tragic records.

For SIU, 1968 was a year of no little accomplishment in both physical and academic growth. The year, 20th of President Delyte W. Morris' administration, saw SIU gain formal approval from the Illinois Board of Higher Education to start a medical school at Carbondale and begin planning for a dental school at the Southwestern.

This was followed by SIU's bid for a school of law, a proposal that is still under study by the Higher Board's Committee on legal education.

Beyond the drive for full-fledged university curricula was Robert MacVicar, named chancellor of the Communications building at Carbondale in a major reorganization that was another 1968 milestone for the university.

Local Chancellor

John D. Rendleman was appointed local chancellor of the Southwestern Campus. Both MacVicar and Rendleman had been vice-presidents — of academic affairs and business affairs, respectively — posts which were merged with the change to chancellorship.

The reorganization had the effect of providing more autonomy for the two campuses, both of which grew to unexpected enrollment levels at the start of school in September.

When the final count was in, it showed nearly 32,000 students on the two campuses, a jump of more than 14% over the previous year. Increases were noted in all areas, particularly at Carbondale; fine arts, business and education buildings at Southwestern, which opened only three years before. Enrollment there topped 10,300 in the September term. Near the end of the year SIU sold buildings at Southwestern to campus student and staff apartment project at Southwestern, thus transforming its image from that of a commuter campus.

The Illinois Higher Board recommended $188 million from state funds to operate SIU during the coming biennial period.

Capital improvements included a doctoral degree program in the biological sciences, a learning center and a teaching facility for the installation of a new computer system in the SIU data processing center and classroom building terminals allowing linkups with other computerized educational programs.

Conservation Area

In a springtime ceremony near Little Grassley Lake, SIU opened a 150-acre conservation education land area, a unique cooperative venture between the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and sportmen's groups. It will be utilized to teach children and adults the increasingly important lessons of the delicate balance between man and his environment.

SIU's longstanding commitment to assist area communities and agencies was underlined with a new service to the city of Carbondale office, which began work in a series of city-minded social and cultural want. On the campus a black American studies program began in the fall with the aim of focusing on the contributions of black scholars, scientists, artists to American culture.

"We have to do something to correct this situation before things really get worse," Staaf said. "The school bus accident in December caused a great deal of concern to everyone. We urge all village residents to sign a petition to have the speed limit reduced as one method of curbing the accidents."

Accident on Bridge

An auto halted on the curve at the west end of McKinley bridge was struck Saturday night by an auto driven by James Welsh, 3001 Dale avenue. Police charged the driver of the halted auto, Frank Franklin, St. Louis, with operating a motor vehicle while his license was revoked.

Loses Billfold, $29

Joseph Brunch, 1437 Grand avenue, reported to police Saturday that he had lost a black wallet containing $29 in the vicinity of Niedringhaus avenue and Chestnut street.

OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENT by Granite City Army Depot personnel in the Cost Reduction Program earned the Army Material Command's CR Flag displayed by Col. Charles E. Hoskin III, GCAD commander (left), and Sgt. Maj. Michael Zupanic. Presentation of the flag took place recently at the Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

Cost Reduction Award Presented to Army Depot

More than 150 individuals whose ingenuity enabled the U.S. Army Materiel Command to save $250 million in the 1968 fiscal year were honored recently at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., in the AMC's first nation-wide ceremony of its type.

Among the installations honored for outstanding achievement in the Army's Cost Reduction Program was the Granite City Army Depot, with Col. Charles E. Hoskin III, Depot commander, presiding at the ceremony to accept the AMC's Cost Reduction Flag.

The meeting was called to order by the leader, Mrs. Marie Berger, and the members recited the pledge of allegiance and the Tops pledge. Reports were given by Mrs. Reutzel, treasurer, and Mrs. Ann Metz, treasurer.

During weighing, penalties were levied for gains. Baskets of fruit were presented to Mrs. A. Brooks, assistant secretary of the Army, Installations and Logistics, and Major General Walter J. Woolwine, director, Procurement and Production, Army Materiel Command.

Senator Joseph D. Tydings was the principal speaker at the conclusion of a two-day ceremony which paid tribute to the major subordinate commanders, commanding officers of installations and activities, heads of corporations and awardees from all levels within the organization.

The $250 million savings is the highest total achieved by AMC in any fiscal year since the Cost Reduction Program was initiated. This year, the Command was forecast to exceed $300 million.

Other speakers on the program included T. A. Wilson, president of Boeing Aircraft Co.; General Frank S. Besser Jr., AMC commanding general; and Major Gen. Clarence J. Lang, AMC chief of staff.

Medicare Deductible Amount Goes Up $4 Sister M. Consilia, 75, Dies at Hospital

Older people who enter the hospital under Medicare this year will be responsible for an additional $4 of their hospital bills.

Up till now, Ralph Brasher, social security district manager, said, Medicare has paid all but the first $40 of a patient's bill. Now, he said, the hospital deductible must be paid by each individual.

He said, it will cover all but the first $44. He noted that the hospital bill for an average stay by a Medicare beneficiary now runs about $600.

The hospital's $4.1 deductible amount is the maximum for which the Medicare beneficiary is responsible—he explained, is similar to the deductible amounts provided by most car insurance policies where the car owner pays the first $50 or $100 of a repair bill and the insurance company pays the rest.

The increase of $4 in the portion of the hospital bill for which a Medicare beneficiary is responsible results from a provision in the law requiring an annual review of the deductible. The first such review, the law states, will be made in January 1968. The law states that if this annual review shows that hospital costs have changed significantly, the hospital deductible must be adjusted for the following year, with any necessary adjustments made in $4 steps—to avoid small annual changes.

Brasher said that when the deductible amount is increased, the law requires comparable changes in the dollar amounts a Medicare beneficiary pays toward hospital stay of 60 days or less.

He said, if a patient stays 60 days or more, the hospital extended care stay of more than 20 days. These amounts, also, went up 10% on Jan. 1, 1969.

When a Medicare beneficiary has a hospital stay of more than 60 days, he will pay $11 a day for the 61st through the 90th day, up from the present $10 per day. If he has a post-hospital stay of over 20 days in an extended care facility, he will pay $11.50 per day toward the costs of the 21st through the 100th day.

If he needs to draw on his lifetime reserve, he can draw upon it as often as he chooses, upon it if he ever needs more than 90 days of hospital care in the same benefit period, he will now pay $22 a day for each reserve day used, instead of $20 per day.

For Medicare beneficiaries who enter a hospital before the end of this year, the hospital deductible amount will be $40, rather than $44, Brasher pointed out. Also, the dollar amount they will pay toward the cost of hospital extended care stay of more than 20 days.

These amounts, also, went up 10% on Jan. 1, 1969.

Pronunciation, 'Status' Go Together; All People Equal But Some 'More Equal' Than Others

(Family Economic Bureau)

Do you know this man? He owns two new cars and a two-car garage, but the garage stands empty because the cars are parked in the driveway now. You know who he is, because he will know what an affluent neighbor they have.

He "forgets" to remove the itemized price list from the side window of the car he bought three months ago. Anyone who might doubt the newness of his car will doubt no more when he sees the price list.

He rides 'round and round his porch, shouting, "I'm the Lord of the Manor," astride his thousand-dollar garden-tractor-with-mower-attachment.

He tells you he's a vice-president of his bank. He doesn't tell you he's a director, either. He also is vice-president at his law office.

This man is a status seeker.

He can be observed in any social circle monopolizing the conversation. Subject: himself.

We need to malign the poor man, though, because all of us are status seekers. We care what people think of us. Of course, most of us don't pursue the Good Life with the same shameless ardor as our spending friend.

Found to Be Widespread

The commonness of status-seeking was confirmed in a survey of the preferences of American parents by the Family Economics Bureau.

Status seeking proved to be an ailment that afflicts all ages, as social classes. Sociologist Robert E. Park is quoted as saying: "Everyone is always trying to everywhere more or less consciously playing a role" in attempting to maintain its status.

Business and government have become accessories in the role playing game by endowing employees with pretentious titles—paying them off with titles, we say.

Cooking has become executive chefs; garbage collectors become sanitation engineers, by edict of the Milwaukee city council; janitors become custodial engineers and maintenance salesmen engineers. In this way, perfectly honorable occupations are given extra prestige by a play words.

Seek Status; Find Absurdity

Some people carry their status-seeking to ridiculous lengths. Midwesterners move to suburban $45,000 homes and suddenly begin pronouncing "tomato" and "either" the way movie stars do. "Project" acquires a long "e" in the vocabulary of a young executive.

Allen Corén, a writer for Punch magazine, would have us believe that if we could only be born in the right place, we'd be snatched from their crib at birth and a ceremonial pebble in the family since the Norman conquest, is slipped under the infant's tongue.

"These lips are sewed together to leave a minuscule gap, and the child is forced to read the social columns of the Times for the next 10 years in a high, clear, shrill voice."

In Philadelphia, "upper-ups" confirm their status by closing a big deal with an "All righty-roo" and they take leave of their hosts with a "Nights - noddles."

Really?

For unmitigated pomposity, first prize goes to the people in the small frame house on a very modest scale who elect a large sign of rough-hewn redwood bearing the boast "Smith Ranch."

On second thought, how can the Smiths be blamed when the same society that calls them

Sternbergs Chalk Up 30,000 Miles in Optimist Travels

Not yet mid-year in his travels as the Optimist International President, Gene H. Sternberg presented the Cook County Sheriff Woods with a "Respect for Law" plaque.

Optimist Set Record

Sternberg's next speaking engagement is at Pleasant Run Lodge, St. Charles, Ill., where the largest group of Optimist ever known to have gathered at one place in that area, met to hear the International President.

Official visits were extended to out-of-town guests by Mayor Harold Zeis in Fort Wayne and Mayor George Neumark at St. Charles.

After his appearance in St. Charles, the local contractor flew to Des Moines to emcee a banquet of Master Builders of Iowa on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the State Office Building. On this side trip, he was privileged to meet William Klinger, president of Associated General Contractors of America, an office he has since 1937.

Survives Convention Site

A return stop made in Atlanta, Ga., was followed by a meeting of the museum of the Lincoln Life Insurance Co. conducted by Dr. R. G. McMurry, director. Sternberg was a foremost Lincoln authority in this country. McMurry is also editor of "Lincoln's," the magazine of Associated General Contractors of America, an office he has since 1937.

An interesting sidelight of this trip occurred when Mrs. Sternberg, accompanied by a well-known lithograph of Lincoln printed when he was president-elect and showing him standing and bearded, the Sternbergs had a copy of the same at the District Convention last May in the Pacific Southwest District. Dr.

McMurry, upon hearing the description, took the visitors to his office and showed them a similar lithograph and assured them they possessed a rare and valuable photo of Lincoln.

Both radio and television interviews were arranged for Sternberg and were conducted in a room at the museum, filled with quite rare statues and rare busts of Lincoln. Later, he printed when he was president-elect and showing him standing and bearded, the Sternbergs had a copy of the same at the District Convention last May in the Pacific Southwest District. Dr.

McMurry, upon hearing the description, took the visitors to his office and showed them a similar lithograph and assured them they possessed a rare and valuable photo of Lincoln.

To continue their southern tour the next stop was made at Guerin-Borglum, a well-known statue of Washington, Lincoln, Franklin and Theodore Roosevelt.

Arriving at the airport the Sternbergs experienced the red carpet treatment in honor of Mrs. Sternberg's birthday. She

Autograph Book Received

A choral gift received in Ft. Wayne, Ind., was an autographed book by Dr. McMurry entitled "Beardless Portraits of Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Declaration" prepared by the author.

To conclude the visit, pictures of Mr. and Mrs. Sternberg were taken in front of the bronze statue of Lincoln, depicting him as the Hoosier Lincoln.

The next stop was made in Chicago, where a news conference with representatives of a chain of suburban newspapers was held, and Sternberg presented the Cook County Sheriff Woods with a "Respect for Law" plaque.

Not to be outdone by gifts from other areas, the North Carolina Optimists gave the local couple a hickory chair made in their most famous furniture district.

Radio and television coverage was included in this visit, as was a tour of the city of Charlotte.

During their fast pace of travel, the Sternbergs made stops in Dallas, Mobile and Atlanta from Thursday to Sunday, and returned home Monday.

A meeting was held in Dallas, Texas, just 30 miles from Dallas, as it was planned this year by the International President and his staff to hold meetings in the state of Texas.

That had not previously been visited by the President or other Optimist dignitaries. Sternberg commented, "The more I travel, the more I have proven to myself success."

At Denton and again in Atlanta they were presented with oil painting of themselves from a magazine cover which featured the Sternbergs.

Switched among these trips and tours was a three-day session of the board of directors of the Optimist International, held in St. Louis. The Optimist International is the largest organization of Optimists in the world.

Meets Gov. Maddox

On the visit to Atlanta, Sternberg met Gov. Maddox at the governor's mansion for the signing of the state-wide Youth Apprenticeship Act.

Following a brief rest at home, a short auto trip was made to Columbia, Mo., for a meeting with the Missouri District. Accompanying the Sternbergs were Governor Bill Cole and Kirkwood attorney, and his wife. Coleman is the vice-president of the Missouri Region.

On a trip to Tulsa, Okla., Sternberg participated in the National Service Club Leaders Conference with national officers.

Court Guard and Bugles

The Iowa District also was visited, with a stop at Cedar Rapids where a large gathering of Optimists and a color guard, drum and bugle corps met them at the airport.

At his Friday performance he will play Handel's "Sonata in E Major," Brahms' "Sonata No. 3 in D Minor" and Prokoffieff's "Sonata in D Major." The recital is open to the public without charge.

Auto Hits Street Sign

While attempting a right turn, an auto driven by Michael J. Butler, 703 Kirkpatrick Homes, overshot the intersection and struck a street lamp at Washington Avenue and Edwards Street at 12:15 a.m. Friday. The car was damaged. Butler was charged with careless driving.
